The objective of the sub-fund is to generate a higher level of longterm capital growth.

The sub-fund predominantly invests in equity funds denominated in EUR and other currencies (about 95% of the net sub-fund assets). The sub-fund does not contain any funds investing in bond funds. It should be noted that the portfolio's objective is not sustainable investment and the underlying investments in this portfolio have no binding obligation to take account of EU criteria for environmentally sustainable economic activities as set out in Regulation (EU) 2019/2088 and in Regulation (EU) 2020/852. The portfolio does not have a dedicated ESG strategy.

The sub-fund is primarily tailored to growth-oriented investors who have an investment horizon of at least five years.

The sub-fund is of higher risk. In addition to the typical risks associated with the funds or assets held in the portfolio (such as credit risks, interest rate risks), this portfolio also has an exchange rate risk due to the different reference currencies of the funds allocated in the portfolio, as well as the diversification of the assets of these funds.

The performance history of this portfolio started on 01 April 2020. Performance data for this portfolio will be available after the expiry of 12 months.

Manager Commentary

While yields on long-term bonds came under slight pressure in October, international stock markets recovered. The Moventum fund of funds strategy was able to generate a positive performance in this market environment.

Potentially market-disturbing issues continue to smolder over the capital markets. In China, the situation around Evergrande has calmed down somewhat for the time being, but there can be no talk of an all-clear.

Inflation rates worldwide continue to rise, driven by the seemingly unstoppable rise in energy prices. Despite this, the central banks are still sticking to their line, while the markets are speculating that monetary policy will be tightened much sooner.

Influenced by supply chain problems, economic growth for the past third quarter shows visible signs of slowing down in the individual economic regions. While economic output in Europe still grew by 2.2 percent compared with the previous quarter, it was only 0.5 percent in the USA and 0.2 percent in China. No fundamental improvement is expected in the current fourth quarter, as the situation surrounding supply chains is not expected to ease before the middle of next year.

Nevertheless, the economic upswing is not expected to come to an end. The order books of industrial companies are full to bursting and market participants are overlooking any negative impact on corporate earnings due to the problems described for the third quarter. On the other hand, the results of unaffected companies continue to show a positive trend for the most part.

A new lockdown would be economically negative in the course of a worsening pandemic situation.

We remain positive on the equity markets and expect positive signals on the inflation front as energy prices ease. We are sticking to our fundamentally defensive stance on the fixed-income side in expectation of a further slight rise in yields.
